

How to switch to better banking

Switching guide

Welcome to better banking. You are about to enter a world of convenient banking services where managing your finances is quick and easy. Simply follow these five steps to switch to better.

Step 1: Prepare the necessary paperwork

Visit your nearest branch with the necessary documentation to open your Barclays account.

A completed and signed application form

A list of institutions or companies that pay money into your account and that deduct from your account monthly (all your credit and debit standing orders)

• Your passport or national identity card

Step 2: Visit your nearest branch

Visit your nearest branch with the necessary documentation to open your Barclays account.

Step 3: Notify third parties of your bank change

Once you have opened your new Barclays account, you need to notify relevant third parties about your bank account change. This is where that list of credit and debit orders from Step 1 will come in handy again.

Step 4: Close your old bank account

Just one more visit to your current bank before you can officially say you have switched to better! Most other banks require you to come in in person to close your account with a valid ID document.

Step 5: Embrace better banking

Congratulations! You're about to embark on a wonderful banking journey with Barclays.

Switch to better. Prosper.
